

T / FSelect*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*About You

I have openly revealed my childhood and early adult years to my child

I enforce consequences for my child's poor decisions

I am good at sticking to a binding contract once it is agreed upon

I teach my values through stories, metaphors, and by walking-the-talk

I rarely, if ever, use money to solve a conflict

The home I've provided to my child conveys my value system

I frequently use checklists to manage my life and my child's life

I make a budget and stick to it for my personal finances

I speak simply and am easy to understand

My home has little drama and little conflict

T / FSelect*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*Select*About Your Child

My child has successfully held at least one job for more than six months

My child has pro-actively researched one or more colleges without my help

My child expects to significantly help pay for college through work or scholarships

My child accepts responsibility for poor decisions without blaming others

My child follows the rules and appreciates guidelines

My child has not been over-indulged

My child rarely gets angry

My child communicates with me exceptionally well

My child understands and accepts consequences for poor decision-making

My child solves difficult inter-personal situations with little or no assistance from others

Interpretation:

0-5 "True" responses: You & your child will have difficulty doing the College Contract process

6-15 "True" responses: While not easy, you & your child will greatly benefit from the process.

16-20 "True" responses: You don't really need to do this process - but it will still be beneficial.

Click here > http://www.collegecontract.com/uploads/College_Contract_Questionnaire_v06.xls*For a full evaluation.*